 sidelines. It is the first newspaper to publish in Arabic, and it has been released weekly since its inception.

The newspaper focuses on local news, politics, social issues, and entertainment. It has a circulation of about 10,000 copies per week and is distributed throughout the country.

The newspaper is known for its investigative reporting and is feared by many government officials. It has been censored and has faced legal challenges in the past, but continues to publish stories on important issues.
